CHRISTER, WILLIAM. Adm. pens. at EMMANUEL, July 10, 1835.

CHRISTIAN, EDWARD. Adm. pens. (age 17) at PETERHOUSE, Mar. 29, 1775. Of Cumberland. [S. of Charles, of Morland Close.] Bapt. at Brigham, Cumberland, Mar. 3, 1758. Scholar, 1775; matric. Michs. 1776. Migrated to St John's, May 2, 1777; Scholar, 1777; 2nd Chancellor's Medal; Prizeman; B.A. (3rd Wrangler) 1779; M.A. 1782. Fellow of St John's, 1780-9. It would appear that for a few months he was Head Master of Hawkshead Grammar School, 1781. [His parentage is not given in either of the College Registers.] He was a brother of Fletcher Christian, the Master's mate of the Bounty (see The Mutineers of the Bounty, by Lady Diana Belcher, p. 6). To the Minutes of the proceedings in the Court Martial held at Portsmouth, Aug. 12, 1793, on the Bounty mutineers, Christian added an appendix, purporting to give a full account of the causes of the mutiny. This evoked a reply from Admiral Bgh, who described the appendix—as 'the work of Mr Edward Christian, the brother of Fletcher Christian, written apparently for the purpose of vindicating his brother's conduct at my expense'. Adm. at Gray's Inn, July 5, 1782, as 'of Morland Close, Cumberland, gent.' Called to the Bar, Jan. 25, 1786. Bench. 1809. Treasurer, 1810-11. Professor of Common Law, May 10, 1788. First Downing Professor of the Laws of England, 1788-1823. Chief Justice of the Isle of Ely, 1800. One of the Counsel for the University in the litigation which ultimately led to the foundation of Downing College. A candidate for the office of Registrar of the Corporation of the Bedford Level, 1804 (his election address was printed in the Cambridge Chronicle, Mar. 30, 1805); the result of the voting was challenged and a controversy ensued. There was apparently a scuffle for the possession of the office of the corporation and further controversy (Cambridge Chronicle, July 20, 1805). Professor of Law at the East India Company's College at Hertford, 1806-18. As Chief Justice, noted for his length, and mostly irrelevant, charges to the Grand Jury; wittily said by Gunning to have died, 'in the full vigour of his incapacity.' The Universities are, however, indebted to him for having successfully worked for their rights to a copy of every copyrighted work. Author, legal. Married, at Rochdale, Lancs., Oct. 11, 1809, Mary, eldest daughter of John Walmsley, of Tentercroft and Castlemere. Died s.p. Mar. 29, 1823, aged 62 (sic), at Downing College. M.I. at Broxbourne, Heris. Brother of John (1773). (T. A. Walker, 340; St John's Coll. Adm., iv; D.N.B.; Gunning, Reminiscences, i, 192-200.)

Did not take Priest's Orders; later refused any title except as a layman. Domestic Chaplain to the Earl of Portmore, 1785. Awarded first prize for his Essay Against Slavery, rec'd to Cambridge to read it at the Commencement in 1788. On his return journey to London, when coming in sight of Wale's Mill in Hertfordshire, he was dismounted and sat down by the roadside to ponder the contents of his Essay. There and then determined to devote himself to the abolition of the Slave Trade and thenceforth gave up his time and energies to the movement, spending in the effort most of his private fortune. Made the acquaintance of Wilberforce, who became interested in the movement and subsequently raised the matter in the House of Commons. Traveled all over England collecting evidence as to the cruelty of the traffic and enlisting public sympathy; went to Paris to gain the support of the French Government, 1789-90, and visited the Czar, 1818. A Vice-President of the Anti-Slavery Society. His name, with that of Wilberforce, permanently associated with the abolition of the slave trade. Granted the freedom of London, 1839. Lived latterly at Playford Hall, near Ipswich, as a gentleman farmer. A road at Cambridge is named after him. Married Catherine, dau. of Robert Buck, of Newton, Suffolk, Jan. 19, 1796. Author, History of the Rise, Progress and Accomplishment of the Abolition of the Slave Trade by the British Parliament; A Memoir of William Penn, Numerous pamphlets and tracts. Died Sept. 26, 1846, at Playford Hall. Buried at Playford. A monument was erected to his memory on the hill above Wale's Mill. Father of Thomas (1813). (St John's Coll. Adm., iv, D.N.B.)

[There is considerable doubt as to this man's identity. Sir George Cockburn, Admiral and Bart., died s.p.m. 1853. In G.E.C., Baronetage, ii. 330, there is a note giving an advertisement which appeared in The Times, May 10, 1851, re the widow and children of the late George Henry Cockburn, eldest son of Sir George, Bart. and Admiral, and nephew of the late Sir Alexander James Edmund Cockburn, Bart. According to St John's Coll. Adm. Reg., George Cockburn, adm. there in 1824, was son of Sir George, Bart., he matriculated from St John's as George, the additional christian name of Alexander appears in the Sidney College Reg., where he was admitted 'from St John's,' and when taking both degrees. He is also said to have been adopted by a Judge of the High Naval Court—no parentage being given. The identification of the Rev. George Alexander Cockburn with the son of Sir George Cockburn has not been established and perhaps two men have been confused.]

COCKBURN, JAMES. Adm. Fell.-Com. at EMMANUEL, June 29, 1788. Of Middlesex. S. and h. of Sir James, Bart., of Eyemouth, Co. Berwick. B. Mar. 21, 1771. Matric. Michs. 1780.
